GENERAL ASSESSMENT

There are stringent regulations governing the occasions when electronic surveillance is used which ensure it is only employed when other methods of investigation have failed to produce results. There are three stages through which an application for authorization must pass. First, the application must be approved by a designated investigator's superiors. Second, the approval of an agent specially designated by the Solicitor General - usually a law officer of the Crown - must be sought. Finally, a judge of a superior court of criminal jurisdiction, or a judge as defined in Section 482 of the Criminal Code, must be satisfied by a statement under oath that the interception is necessary and is indeed the only way to obtain the necessary evidence. This process of accountability, finally resting on the Canadian judicial system, ensures that the ability to intercept communications is not abused.

In a recent case in Western Canada the interception of private communications contributed to the arrest of five persons involved in the importation of narcotics. The result was a seizure of 13.6 tons of marijuana, with a street value of $35 million.

Although the Western Canada seizure was the most spectacular, through the use of electronic surveillance, other very substantial quantities of illicit drugs were prevented from reaching the neighbourhood traffickers and users. These are as follows:

Drugs	Amount
Heroin	2.5 kilos
Cocaine	2 kilos
Hashish	29 kilos
Hashish Oil	7.6 kilos
Marijuana	467 kilos

In another case in Central Canada, an authorization was obtained to aid in the investigation under Section 192 of the Customs Act. The interception of private communications led to the arrest of four persons who have been charged with 58 offences, 8 of which were under the Customs Act, and 50 under the Criminal Code.

EXPLANATION OF STATISTICS

a) Number of Authorizations

The number of authorizations granted in 1978 has increased by 97 over those granted in 1977. The factors contributing to this are:

(1) the courts have held that a renewal of an authorization cannot contain any alteration except to extend the time for which the authorization is valid. Therefore, a new authorization must be obtained in order to intercept conversations of persons whose identity became known as a result of an authorization.

(2) amendments passed in October, 1977 expanded by 14 the offences for which an authorization may be granted.

b) The Number of Applications for Renewals

There were 196 applications for renewals in 1978 as opposed to 597 in 1977. This can be attributed to the fact that an authorization is now valid for 60 days rather than 30 days which was the case prior to the October 1977 amendment to Section 178.13(2)(e).

c) The Number of Authorizations Refused

The refusal rate for authorizations and renewals of authorizations remains low. This is due to the fact that only those applications which are fully justified reach a judge for his final approval. The procedure followed is described in the general assessment.

d) The Number of Persons Identified in an Authorization

The increase in this figure corresponds to the greater number of authorizations granted.

e) The Number of Persons Not Identified in an Authorization

The explanation set out in d) above also applies.

f) The Average Period for which Authorizations were Given and for which Renewals thereof were Granted

The length of time for which authorizations were valid increased from 63.5 days in 1977, to 73.5 days in 1978. This increase is also attributed to the extension of the period for which authorizations are valid.

g) The Number of Authorizations, by Virtue of One or More Renewals thereof, were Valid

By virtue of the amendments passed in October, 1977, authorizations and renewals of authorizations are now valid for 60 days each. Therefore, no figures are shown in (i) and (ii).

g.1) The Number of Notifications

Section 178.23 requires that notification be given to those persons whose communications have been intercepted within ninety days following the termination of the authorization, provided no deferral was granted. The number of notifications is lower than the number of authorizations as it reflects those persons whose communications were actually intercepted and who have been notified in 1978. A large number of notifications are not required until 1979 as the 90-day period has not yet elapsed. Also, deferrals of notification have been granted in some cases.

h) Offences for which Authorizations were Given

These statistics have increased slightly as a result of the expansion of the offences for which authorizations may be granted and the increased number of authorizations granted.

i) Number of Authorizations and Classes of Place

There is a slight increase which corresponds with the increased number of authorizations.

j) Methods of Interception

Telecommunications continue to be the most common form of interception employed.

k) Number of Persons Arrested

To date in 1978 there have been 18 more persons arrested than during the corresponding period in 1977.

l) Criminal Proceedings and Resultant Convictions where Wiretap Evidence was Adduced

The majority of cases have not yet been heard by the courts and therefore no meaningful figures are available at this time.

It should be noted that many persons when confronted with wiretap evidence enter a guilty plea. In other cases it is unnecessary to use the intercepted evidence because sufficient other evidence has been uncovered at the time of arrest. Therefore, the majority of convictions are recorded in (m)(i).

m) Wiretap Evidence not Adduced as Evidence

To date 146 convictions have resulted where intercepted information was used, but not adduced as evidence. This figure reflects only a small percentage of cases as the majority have not yet been prosecuted.

The following is a summary of key statistics of the first four and one-half years since the enactment of the Protection of Privacy Act.:

	1974	1975	1976	1977	1978
Authorizations Granted	140 (1)	562	613	615	712
Number of Persons Arrested	361	1,557	1,468	1,171 (2)	897 (2)
Number of Convictions	222 (3)	968 (3)	790 (3)	495 (3)	150 (3)
Authorization/Arrest Ratio	2.57 (4)	2.77 (4)	2.39 (4)	1.90 (4)	(6)
Arrest/Conviction Ratio	61.5% (5)	62.2% (5)	53.8% (5)	42.3% (5)	(6)

(1) Act in force for six months only in 1974.

(2) Other arrests pending.

(3) Cases are still before the courts in relation to investigations of authorizations originating in 1974 through to 1978.

(4)&(5) These ratios will increase as investigations and prosecutions are completed.

(6) No meaningful ratios available at this time.

The cumulative nature of the figures can be clearly demonstrated by using 1975 as an example.

	Number of Authorizations	Number of Arrests	Number of Convictions
1975 figures reported in 1975	562	1,208	196
1975 figures reported in 1976	562	1,492	514
1975 figures reported in 1977	562	1,523	836
1975 figures reported in 1978	562	1,557	968

Many cases concerning authorizations obtained in 1975 are still before the courts and the number of convictions is therefore expected to increase in 1979.

To ensure that the statistics shown in this report are interpreted correctly, particularly with respect to the number of convictions obtained, updated figures for the 1977, 1976, 1975 and 1974 Annual Reports are attached as Appendices A, B, C and D.
